Workers for Boling Concrete Construction of St. Louis pour concrete on Whitsell Way in Pontoon Beach Thursday. The work, not authorized by the village, was designed to repair the substandard street in the Chouteau Trace subdivision.

Substandard street being repaired

Pontoon Beach officials said they had little choice but to allow concrete work to continue to repair a substandard street in Chouteau Trace subdivision in the village, despite the failure of the contractor or subdivision developer to obtain approval before starting. However, village officials said they would not pay any of the cost and the contractor was "on his own" as far as liability is concerned. At an emergency board meeting Wednesday, trustees approved having Village Engineer John Hales provide an on-site inspector for the work at no charge to the city. Work on the street was halted Wednesday after village officials heard about it, but it resumed Thursday.

The approval came after Trustee Randy Presswood, Village Attorney Keith Jensen and Hales went upstairs during the meeting for a telephone conference with contractor Randy Boling.

At the start of the meeting Presswood, chairman of the board's Streets Committee, said he had noticed earlier in the week that somebody had taken a small core sample and marked pavement in blue ink. At about noon Wednesday, he found out that workers from Boling Concrete Construction of St. Louis had made a number of cuts in the street and were pouring concrete into one of the holes.

Jensen — who went out to the site Wednesday afternoon — said a foreman told him developer Stan Lucas had authorized the work. Lucas — through BTL Enterprises — was the developer of the Chouteau Trace subdivision. Boling did the original street work.

In late June five concrete core samples taken from the street failed to meet the village's (See STREET, Page 4A)

Party omission intentional

Mihalich admits he left his GOP affiliation off flier

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

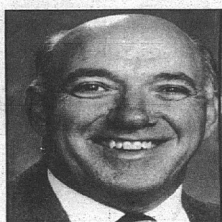

Republican state representative candidate Jim Mihalich admits that his party affiliation was intentionally omitted from a flier promoting a fund raiser in Granite City later this month.

"But it's not that I'm ashamed of the party," Mihalich said, adding that he needs to capture votes of some crossover Democrats and all independent voters in the Tri-Cities area if he is to defeat incumbent Steve Davis, a Democrat from Bethalto, in the Nov. 5 race for the seat in the 111th legislative district.

Davis won the post by narrowly defeating GOP candidate Ted Prehn of Bethalto in 1994. If not for the vote in Granite City, Prehn would have defeated Davis, according to the official precinct results of that election.

The Mihalich campaign has been concentrating on capturing votes in the heavily Democratic Tri-Cities area. Mihalich appeared in the Granite City Centennial Parade and had an information booth at the Centennial festival last month in Wilson Park.

"That's the way we choose to run the campaign — on the issues," said Doug Wojchieszak of the Mihalich campaign. "We're not so concerned about party affiliation as we are with the man himself."

"Let's not get wrapped up in what's going on in Washington or the White House. Let's focus on the issues in the 111th District — which does include Granite City."

Wojchieszak referred to the fact that the flier promoting a Mihalich fund raiser later this week also lists 11 communities located in the district — Alton,

Renovation continuing

Students will have to excuse the dust when classes resume at Granite City High School next month.

A $12 million renovation of Granite City High School is currently in full swing.

"This has been a real good team effort," said school board President Eldin Rea. "The administration, construction manager, contractors and architect have all worked together to ensure that this renovation runs smoothly and comes within budget."

For example, the budget called for a total expenditure of $216,000 for asbestos removal,

"This (the inside) is going to look like a completely different building (when finished)."

but that figure is expected to reach $700,000, School Superintendent Steve Balen said. "We save a little bit here and there and we spend a little more in other areas," Rea said. (See SCHOOL, Page 8A)

$750,000 estimated town cost

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Granite City mayoral candidate David Partney said Friday that services provided by Granite City Township could be provided by other governments at about one-fourth the cost.

Partney, who is circulating petitions to have a referendum placed on the November ballot regarding the continuation of township government in Granite City Township, said most of the township's budget is taken up by administrative costs or providing services that could be done elsewhere.

By eliminating the township government, Partney said, taxpayers would save approximately $750,000 per year.

Because the city and township are coterminous — have mostly the same boundaries — many services normally provided by townships, such as road maintenance and animal control, are provided by the city.

The township oversees a general assistance program, bus service and senior citizens programs and also provides tax assessments and related services.

On May 7, the Granite City Council, which also serves as the township board, approved appropriations totaling $1,001,918 for the township. Partney said most of those services could be provided by the city at a cost of $312,000.

Partney said he had received "numerous calls and heard many rumors" that eliminating township government would eliminate services — including the senior citizen program.

He said that was untrue. "Included in this budget would be a first-class senior citizen bus service, a full-time (See TOWNSHIP, Page 4A)

Police dogs win exemption

Legislators tout law that removes quarantine imposition

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A recently signed bill exempting police dogs from a state-imposed quarantine after biting someone was touted by local legislators in a series of press conferences Thursday. Flanked by local police dogs and handlers, State Reps. Steve Davis, D-Bethalto, and Tom Holbrook, D-Belleview, stopped in Belleville, Granite City and Wood River to talk about the bill, one of the few pieces of Democratic-sponsored legislation to be passed and signed into law this year. Illinois law previously made it mandatory for any dog biting a human to be locked up under a veterinarian's care for 10 days. The new bill exempts working police dogs from that requirement.

"Every major law enforcement agency in the state supported this," Holbrook said. He said police dogs are "probably the most helpful tools we have in law enforcement today."

"This legislation will protect our officers in the streets," Davis said. "If they can send a dog into a crime scene instead of an officer, they can find out whether or not a burglar, drug dealer or other criminal is in there without risking their own life."

Because of the increasing concern about terrorism and drug dealing, he said, police dogs "have a potential to make a significant impact on crime."

Also appearing at the Granite City press conference was Maj. Kip Pomeroy of the Granite City Police Department, who suggested the law to legislators after one of the city's two dog handlers brought it up to him. They were flanked by handlers Sgt. Curt Walkenback of Granite City with Bak, Sgt. Kevin Sipes of Madison with Odin and Patrolman Don Homphill of Granite City with Sparky.

Pomeroy said the old law hampered police departments—especially small ones with only one or two dogs. Under the old law, he said, Sparky spent almost half the year in quarantine.

He said the old law "put us in the position of either breaking the law or losing the dogs for the better part of a month" each time they bite someone.

"Our police force is very fortunate to have two dogs in our canine units; however, a number of departments in this area have only one dog," he said. "Before this law, officers were put in a position of losing the service of a dog for 10 days or breaking the law by keeping these dogs on active duty."

Although co-sponsored by a number of legislators—including Rep. Ron Stephens, R-Troy—the bill originated with Holbrook.

A man injured Monday in an accident on Interstate 255 remained hospitalized in critical condition as of Friday afternoon.

Mike Campbell, 35, of East Alton and Lee Roberts, 29, of Granite City were taken to St. Anthony's Medical Center in St. Louis County after the accident. Hospital officials listed

Campbell in critical condition late Friday. Roberts was released on Thursday. Campbell was the driver of the car involved in the incident and Roberts was a passenger. The accident occurred at 4:20 p.m. as Campbell was traveling northbound in the left lane of Interstate 255 between the Jefferson Barracks Bridge and the diamond interchange. According to Illinois State Police, the rear passenger-side tire of the Impala had a blowout at milepost 407. The car went out of control, crossed the left shoulder and struck a concrete signpost.

Six more arrested on warrants in Madison

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Madison police started the new month by arresting six people on outstanding warrants Thursday.

Dawn Michelle Cherry, 24, of the 1600 block of Edison in Granite City, was arrested at about 6:15 p.m. on three outstanding Venice warrants after Madison police made a traffic stop in the 1800 block of Sken Street.

Cherry was wanted for failure to appear on driving 16-20 miles over the speed limit, driving with no insurance and driving an unlicensed vehicle.

At about 7:15 p.m. Nicolette Marie Cole, 26, of the 200 block of Abbott, Venice, was arrested on three outstanding Madison warrants after she flagged a Madison police officer down and claimed she was robbed in Venice. A record check showed Cole was wanted for failure to appear for driving without a valid license, disregarding a traffic control signal and driving with no insurance.

At 7:30 p.m., Orlando L. Porter, 21, of the 1400 block of Seventh Street, Madison, was arrested in the 1500 block of Market Street on an outstanding Madison warrant for failure to appear for disregarding a stop sign.

At about 11 p.m., Michelle Jean Holliday, 27, of the 3000 block of Circle Drive, and Bryan K. Towery, 33, of the 2900 block of Pershing Street, both in Granite City, were arrested after being stopped by police in the 200 block of Ewing.

Holliday was wanted for driving without insurance and driving with a suspended license. Towery was wanted on two outstanding warrants for failing to appear on two counts of resisting arrest and one of driving with a revoked license.

Assessments to be published

The quadrennial assessments for property located in Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau townships will be published in the Thursday, Aug. 8 issue of the Granite City Press-Record.

Grant helps zoo conduct institute

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

A grant for the St. Louis Zoo is going to mean more interesting lessons in local schools in fall.

The 1996 Innovation Grant of $15,500 from the World Wildlife Fund and $20,000 from the Jordan Foundation helped the zoo to develop and conduct a teacher institute on biodiversity and environmental issues and actions. The institute took place over two weeks in June.

"Middle school and secondary school teachers from around the metropolitan area participated," said Jim Jordan, the zoo's adult programs coordinator. "The grant was used to fund 19 teachers to attend a teacher institute and give them materials to use in class."

"The program will allow students to become autonomous investigators of timely science or environmental issues," Jordan said. "The main outcome of the program is that students will be able to discover topics on their own using higher-order, critical thinking skills."

The zoo's program was called "Biodiversity/Environmental Issues and Actions: A Training of Teachers Teacher Institute for Middle and High School Teachers."

The workshops are part of a larger program called Windows on the Wild, a national environmental education program.

Recycling successful in St. Clair County

Recycling efforts by local businesses, schools and recycling companies are proving very successful for St. Clair County. In fact, nearly 62,267 tons of waste have been diverted from the waste stream due to the collective efforts county wide.

Following a recent review by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency of the five-year solid waste management plan update, St. Clair County officials announced the county has reached a state mandated recycling goal of 35 percent.

According to county officials, the recycling program has been embraced by county businesses and individuals. Currently, 65 percent of the county's communities and nearly 73 percent of townships have a recycling program.

In 10 communities, curbside recycling is available and there are 43 drop off recycling points. Maned mobile drop-off collection is available at rural areas.

Additional, county residents also participate in the annual Christmas tree and telephone book recycling programs. Officials say nearly 300 local businesses are involved in some type of community recycling program.

The county sponsors an office and schools paper recycling program that has realized a 239 percent increase in paper recycling since it began.

As early as 1985, the county formed a solid waste task force that looked at ways to improve the handling of municipal solid waste and to institute environmental safeguards.

Local leadership is credited by SCCB chairman John Baricovic as having much to do with the success of recycling.

"The key to the success of this effort is the leadership and support that exists among local businesses, citizens, schools and local elected officials involved in the program," he said.

Overseeing the county recycling program is a job of the County Board's environment committee. For information about recycling, contact Bonnie Robinson, Pollution Prevention manager at the County Health Department at 233-7769.

Fund set for flight victims

A fund to provide assistance to families of victims killed in TWA Flight 800 has been established.

Bellevue resident Betty Martin was among the 230 that died when a Paris-bound 747 exploded shortly after takeoff from Kennedy International Airport in New York July 17.

There were no survivors in the explosion. Recovery and investigation efforts continue at the crash site near Long Island, N.Y. According to TWA officials, the event a surrounding TWA Flight 800 are tragic and while ongoing trauma of the families may not be as newsworthy as the explosion itself, they are no less crucial or serious. There is a real financial dilemma for the individuals who have lost a loved one in this crash.

Officials said that many families are still awaiting recovery of the body or bodies of family members. "No one person was prepared for this and in many cases, the emotional tragedy will be overshadowed by the financial hardship that this event will have caused," said TWA officials.

Families of National Tragedies, a not-for-profit organization, has established a fund for the families of TWA Flight 800. The fund was established to provide financial relief and assistance to family members who were also the victims of the catastrophe. Contributions may be sent to Families of TWA Flight 800, P.O. Box 10189 St. Louis, MO 63145-0189. For more information, call (217) 347-4816.

gram of the World Wildlife Fund. The workshops allow educators to contribute to the new program curriculum.

"We are thrilled to have the St. Louis Zoo join the Windows on the Wild team," said Judy Braus, director of the World Wildlife Fund's environmental education division. "The educators they train will use Windows and other high-quality education materials to enhance their education efforts."

The zoo often conducts special programs for educators, Jordan said.

"We try to offer teacher institutes every summer or once a year," he said. "I'm not sure (the biodiversity/environmental issues class) will be done again."

Mihalich fights genetic tests for insurance

Insurance companies tempted to use genetic screening results to deny health care coverage or jobs.

Mihalich said he will support legislation that keeps genetic test results confidential.

"Genetic tests should not stand in the way of people getting insurance or holding down a job. These tests are cutting edge technology, which are supposed to help people, not hinder them," Mihalich said.

As a former board member of the Alton-Wood River Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Mihalich said he joins the society in making genetic discrimination legislation a top priority. The law will also benefit insurance companies by reducing costs through prevention.

The Illinois House passed similar legislation this spring but it was not approved by the Senate.

The ban on genetic test discrimination has become law in 11 other states, including Wisconsin, Iowa and Ohio.

minimum requirements. The village requires at least six inches of concrete, while the concrete samples ranged from 3.1 to 7.7 inches.

Jensen said when he went out to the site, workers were "taking large sections" of the street and pouring concrete.

"I indicated to him (the foreman) that he didn't have any authority to be doing that," Jensen said.

Village officials said the work needed to be done, but were not pleased with the way it was being handled.

"Nobody knew about it, that's the bad part," Presswood said. "What he's doing is good, but the way they're doing it is wrong."

Village officials said they were concerned about several aspects of the repairs in addition to the failure to obtain permission. One problem is that the new concrete is being poured next to areas which are less than six inches.

"Eventually that three or four inches is going to break again," Hales said.

Hales said he is also concerned about the developer and contractor deciding what needs to be repaired.

After the telephone conference, Hales said Boling was going to finish the work on one side of the street, allow the concrete to cure for a week and then come back and work on the other side of the street.

"He understands up front that you're not paying for anything," Hales said.

Jensen recommended having pictures taken. "Let's prepare for litigation," he said.

Lucas said Thursday he never authorized Boling to do any street work.

Lucas said there was a meeting about a year ago with village officials over problems with the street. At the meeting, they had agreed the village had to pay for the concrete to make the repairs, but the village refused.

"The village never did get back to me," Lucas said. He said he talked to Boling about a week ago about the streets, but never authorized anything.

"I think Boling was standing behind his work," Lucas said. Boling was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Most of the savings would come from eliminating what he called the unneeded administration at the township level and eliminating the township tax assessor.

"The Madison County Assessor's Office would take over the tax work at no cost to the city and most likely with no additional help needed at the county level," he said. "Granite City residents would see a savings on their tax bill as early as a year after this duplication of services is eliminated."

New law will reward state's safe drivers

Several laws signed by Gov. Jim Edgar will reward safe drivers and charity organizations.

Secretary of State George Ryan has announced that, according to new legislation, careful motorists will be able to renew their drivers licenses without leaving home.

The law, called "Safe Driver Renewal," allows Ryan's office to renew drivers licenses by mail, telephone or other electronic means starting Jan. 1.

Another of Ryan's proposals, also signed into law Friday, makes it a crime to display fake auto insurance.

The law, called "Safe Driver Renewal," allows Ryan's office to renew drivers licenses by mail, telephone or other electronic means starting Jan. 1.

These new laws will reward conscientious drivers and give them a new incentive to make sure they comply with the state's mandatory insurance law," Ryan said.

Ryan estimated that about 1 million drivers a year will qualify for "Safe Driver renewal," reducing lines at facilities statewide and saving his office up to $400,000 annually.

The law will require motorists with clean driving records to visit a license facility just once every eight years. It changes state law to extend the time between required vision tests from four to eight years.

The renewal alternative will be available only to drivers between the ages of 21 and 75 who have steered clear of tickets and accidents for the four years preceding their renewal date.

The option will not be offered to anyone with a history of drunk driving or to commercial or school bus drivers.

Those renewing licenses by phone will dial a toll-free number and pay the fee by credit card.

The other new measure closes a loophole in Illinois' mandatory auto insurance law by making it illegal for motorists to show a fake insurance verification card to any judge or court officer. Current law only prohibits displaying a fake card to a police officer or the secretary of state's office.

Edgar also signed legislation Friday to allow charitable and other non-profit organizations to raise money for their groups from Illinois license plates tailored to their groups with individualized decals.

"The 'universal charity' plate will allow non-profit groups to take advantage of the fund-raising possibilities of a license plate without having to navigate the legislative maze," Ryan said.

Students compete in arts festival

By Deb Cooper
 Staff writer

Area students will be competing in the ninth annual Midwest Salute to the Masters fine art festival as part of the high school art competition and exhibition Saturday, Aug. 24, and Sunday, Aug. 25.
 Seventeen local students will be among the 28 young artists selected to participate in the fine art festival that will be held at Longacre Park.
 Students participating include Luke Lieberman and Greg Minton with advisor Mark Lasley from Belleville East. Hunter Husar, Rebecca Renaud and Bryan Walsh with advisor Bill Evans from Belleville West will participate.
 From Collinsville, art by Mike Block, Vincent Lepes and Evan Thomas with advisor Rene Taake will be at the festival. Mascoutah will be represented by Liz Horine, Ben Kissell and Melinda Singleton with advisor Jennifer Keller.
 O'Fallon Township High School students Heather Garner, Seneca Menard and Dan Murdoch with advisor Keith Freeman will participate. Heather File, Aaron Gondek and Heather Withers with advisor Stephanie Astrauskas will also attend.

The students will compete for prizes of $100, $50 and $25 in gift certificates at Dick Blick Art Supplies. The Best of Show will receive a $100 cash prize donated by the Fairview Heights Kiwanis Club.
 Attention to the works by these high school students, visitors to the festival can stroll through five tented galleries housing art from more than 100 nationally known artists.
 The Midwest Salute to the Arts festival kicks off with a preview party Friday, Aug. 23. Meyner Pontac Honda Isuzu in Belleville, the third largest corporate sponsor, will underwrite the cost of the preview event, said Fairview Heights Alderwoman Carol Warner, co-director of the Midwest Salute to the Masters.
 "If you want to be the first to see exhibits and make a purchase, this is for you. It will be a casually elegant evening and is probably one of the best kept secrets in town," said Warner.
 To have the opportunity to attend the preview party, Warner said guests should send a check for a minimum of $50 (for larger amounts, increments of $25 are requested) to Fairview Heights, 10025 Bunkum Road, to guarantee admission to the preview party.

 Some $17,600 in cash prizes, making this one of the largest cash purses in the Midwest, will be awarded to artists who work in a variety of art media. More than 10,000 works ranging from paintings to sculpture to jewelry to ceramics will be displayed.
 The artists will be available near their creations to talk to visitors and discuss their work. Exhibited art will be available for purchase in prices ranging from $10 to $10,000, said Warner.
 One of the highlights of the free festival will focus on children. "We will have our 'For Children Only' gallery again this year. Children will get to buy art for only $5," said Warner.

Agencies receive state funds to help homeless

By Mike Viola
 Staff writer

Illinois will spend one-tenth of funds set aside to help the homeless in East St. Louis. Four East St. Louis not-for-profit agencies recently received a total of $168,358 to help the local homeless.
 "We are fortunate to have a number of excellent organizations that provide homeless people with both temporary shelter and services that can help them become self-sufficient," said Gov. Jim Edgar. "These grants will help many of these organizations continue to provide these valuable services."

The largest local beneficiary the state grants is the American Red Cross, which received $75,000.
 The $75,000 grant was the maximum amount awarded by the state and was awarded to the St. Louis division of the American Red Cross, which will have to spend the money on its facility in East St. Louis.
 Other East St. Louis agencies receiving grants were Catholic Urban Programs, $29,583; the Salvation Army, $38,250; and Call for Help Inc., $22,545.
 Call for Help offers a variety of counseling by telephone and has a residential program for people having difficult times.
 The organization is recruiting volunteers for its fall training class.
 Participants are needed in our Suicide and Crisis Program where we have not only the crisis lines but a youth/teen line, a runaway line and our new line, the Parent Help Line," said Marie Pyle, a Call for Help spokesperson.

Training will be conducted Monday and Wednesday evenings and alternate Saturdays.

Anyone interested in being a Call for Help volunteer can call 397-0885.
 The grants recently awarded to the East St. Louis agencies were given through the Emergency Shelter Grants Program, which is administered by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.
 Grants are awarded on a competitive basis to projects that demonstrate clear need, an immediate ability to use the grant and complement existing homeless shelter activities.

"Without these grants, many facilities would find it difficult to provide services," said Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra. "The grants not only help with essential operating costs, but also help underwrite expenses for food, transportation, medicine, and programs designed to help homeless people identify and address their problems."
 A total of $1.7 million was awarded to 50 organizations in Illinois through the Emergency Shelter Grants Program.

What do you think of companies that cheat on the Olympic name by misleading the public, selling their product and not carrying the official trademark?

By SHIRLEY VALENCIA

"They should be prosecuted and made to pay the monies to the Olympic committee, along with a stiff fine."

Carrie Lang Granite City

Letters to the editor

Silly letters aid Democrats

TO THE EDITOR:
On behalf of my many Democratic friends, I want to pass along my congratulations to L. D. Chestnut, whose hobby apparently is writing letters to the editor.

Single-handedly in the last few months, this Republican has made more friends for the Democratic party than any 10 hard-working Democratic precinct committeemen and committeewomen.

The more he comes up with his silly conclusions, the more solidified Democrats become. Mr. Chestnut is a goodwill ambassador for Alton, too. Recently, he not only cast aspersions on the late Nelson Hagauer, longtime chairman of the Madison County Board of Supervisors, but managed to identify Hagauer's hometown of Granite City as a "rotten borough." Makes you wonder how many good Republicans in Granite City are switching parties, doesn't it?

Along with Madison County, Chestnut is mad at the U.S. government for handing out farm loans and farm subsidy payments totaling in the millions to the leader of the Free men in Idaho, dating back to the late 1970s.

Uh, don't look now, Chestnut, but check later who the president was from 1980 to 1988 (Republican Reagan) and from 1988 to 1992 (Republican Bush).

Conspicuous by its absence is any criticism by Chestnut of Illinois state government. Now that couldn't be because the state is controlled by the Republican party, could it?

There has been criticism of Democratic State Rep. Steve Davis, of course. But, if Chestnut prides himself on the facts, then he knows why Davis can't get any bills passed in Springfield. Those "independent" Republicans don't even have the courtesy to tell Democrats when hearings are scheduled on any of the bills.

So, keep those letters coming, Chestnut. The Democrats love you.

Completion of the project is expected in August 1998. Contractors are currently removing asbestos from the building and have erected structural steel in the three areas of new construction: a media center behind the building, stair towers on the front facade and a 30-by-100 foot atrium/courtyard located between the shop area and the main building.

The atrium will be a place for students to gather and will relieve congestion in halls, Balen said.

But most of the work is being done on the interior of the building.

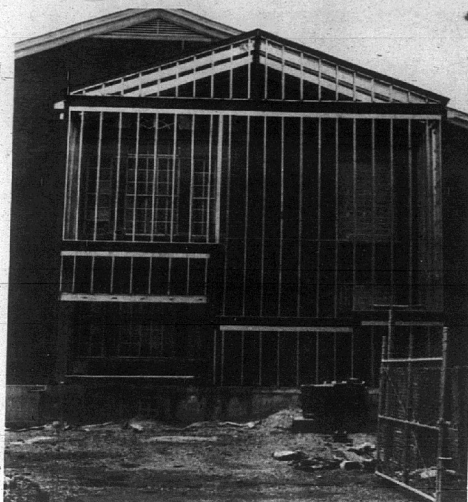

"This (the inside) is going to look like a completely different building (when finished)," said John Hooker of Korte Construction Co., the construction manager on the project.

Construction was continuing last week on asbestos removal, roof replacement and interior work.

Among the projects under way are renovation of a welding shop with more than 20 individual work stations, replacing all of the original wiring in the building and laying new cinder block walls.

School district work forces are going to have their work cut out for them in the coming weeks. Because of the extensive work being done on the interior, most classrooms are currently without chairs, desks and other necessities. Those have been stacked in free spaces throughout the building and will have to be returned to the classrooms before school resumes Sept. 3.

support services for the school district, said he has a notebook listing where all of the equipment is to be returned.

"We expect to be ready for students when classes resume," Balen said.

Contractors will continue construction, one area at a time, after school resumes, Hooker said. He said the work is not expected to disrupt the educational environment.

160 entries in day lily show

The Southwestern Illinois Hemerocallis Society of Granite City held its annual day lily show and sale at the Alton Square Shopping Center on June 29.

More than 160 on scape day lilies were judged by a panel of three at the show, along with several flower arrangements that were judged by a separate panel of three in the artistic division.

Judging of each cultivar in each class is done by the American Hemerocallis Society standard system of awards. First place (blue ribbon) must score at least 90 points out of 100. Second place (red ribbon) must score at least 85 points. Third place (yellow ribbon) must score at least 80 points. The purple ribbon is given to every blue ribbon entry scoring 95 or more points. An AHS rosette is awarded to the best cultivar scoring at least 95 points in each of five classes, with the best of show coming from the scoring of the individual rosette winners. The cultivar with the least amount of deductions is declared the best of show.

The best of show winner, "Yellow Explosion," a large flower day lily, entered by Janice Hammers of Granite City, received the least amount of points deducted for faults at this year's show.

Winners of the AHS Purple Rosette were Janice Hammers, Best Large Flower, "Yellow Explosion"; Agnes Miller, Best Small Flower, "Wine Delight"; Sue Kee, Best Miniature, "Siloam Red Toy"; Agnes Miller, Best Double, "Chum"; and Agnes Miller, Best Spider, "Granite City Towhead".

The winner of the AHS Sweepstakes rosette was Beula Miller with 11 blue ribbons. Winners of Purple Ribbons were: Marilyn Greenlee with one; Judy Grinter with three; Pam Hurd with three; Ken Juenger with one; Agnes Miller with four; Beula Miller with two and Sue Kee with one.

Winners of Blue Ribbons were: Marilyn Greenlee with one; Judy Grinter with five; Janice Hammers with one; Pam Hurd with two; Ken Juenger with five; Sue Kee with one; Helen Mih with two; Agnes Miller with six and Beula Miller with nine.

Winners of Red Ribbons were: Marilyn Greenlee with five; Judy Grinter with three; Janice Hammers with three; Pam Hurd with two; Ken Juenger with two; Helen Mih with one; Agnes Miller with eight and Beula Miller with six.

Winners of Yellow Ribbons were: Marilyn Greenlee with three; Judy Grinter with four; Pam Hurd with one; Helen Juenger with three; Helen Mih with one and Agnes Miller with four.

Honorable Mentions were given to Janice Hammers, Helen Mih, Agnes Miller and Beula Miller.

The Artistic Division was made up of five different classes. Class One, "Lamplighter," contained some kind of light, Class Two, "Victorian," in the shape of a fan; Class Three, "Just Drifting Along," made use of water; Class Four, "Reaching for the Stars," had to be tall; and Class Five, "For the Birds," was the children/youth section.

Winners in the artistic division for Class One were Janice Hammers, first place, and Agnes Miller, second place. Class Two winners were Marian Shelton, first place, and Helen Mih second place. Class Three winners were Agnes Miller, first place, and Beula Miller, second place. Class Four winners were Agnes Miller, first place, and Helen Mih, second place. Winners in Class Five were Heath Hammers, first, and Ian Hurd, first.

SCHOOL NEWS

Albert Walker of Granite City, Belleville Area College's new students representative to the Board of Trustees, left, was sworn in at the April board meeting by Shirlee Heatherly, board secretary.

27 years later, student decides 'school is cool'

It took Albert Walker of Granite City 27 years to figure out that "school was cool," but now it is his motto.

Walker, now 29, recently was elected by his peers at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College to serve as the new student representative to the Board of Trustees. He replaced Laura Schilling of Belleville at the end of her one-year term.

Walker said now that he is an adult he appreciates the value of education more than he did as a teen-ager.

"Now, I have a different perspective on school," he said. "Now, I have a lot more confidence."

Walker is studying communications. He plans to major in communications and minor in either geography or psychology. He is concentrating on the communication, because it is the basis for success in every career area, he said.

His hope is to become a college professor someday. But, 10 years ago, he did not think education was so cool. In fact, he dropped out of high school and joined a carnival that was passing through town.

"I had been a good student in my freshman and sophomore years, but I just started to lose interest," he said. "The carnival looked like fun."

Though he enjoyed traveling with the carnival, he wouldn't recommend it to kids today. He said the lifestyle was unstable and the people he traveled with were often unpredictable. After leaving the carnival, he traveled around taking on a series of odd jobs, which included tending bar and running his own tropical plant nursery.

Two years ago, when he returned to the Metro East, he decided to get back into school. Originally, he just wanted to sign up for a few classes. But, he found himself signing up for an English and math course — courses that would serve as requirements for an associate degree.

"In the back of my mind, I must have known that I wanted to get a degree," he said. "Why else would I have signed up for courses like these?"

Now Walker is hungry for knowledge, he is knee deep in geography, sociology, psychology and philosophy. He also is a student worker in the GCC Center of Student Development.

In his campaign for the student seat on the Board of Trustees, he promised to work for more class offerings at the Granite City and Red Bud campuses, and transportation between the campuses.

He said these two issues are important to students because each campus has courses that are offered only at that campus. Students often must sign up for classes at more than one campus to complete a degree. Sometimes students don't sign up for the classes they need because they have no transportation to the other campuses.

Dr. Jamil attends conference

Dr. Muhammad Jamil, with offices in Madison, Lebanon and Fairview Heights, attended on July 13 a medical conference titled, "Schizophrenia Update," in St. Louis. The program was designed for primary care physicians and psychiatrists. The goal was to provide the physician with information on the most recent findings in antipsychotic medications, assess and address patient management strategies and discuss patient education in acute or long-term treatment of schizophrenia. The program was presented by the Annenberg Center for Health Sciences in California and was underwritten by an unrestricted educational grant from Abbott Laboratories. It was accredited as continuing medical education for physicians and was attended by diverse medical faculty from many states.

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS
Where Beautiful Things Begin

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Rough, bumpy and uneven are words to describe many roads around the country, especially those unpaved ones with their washboard surfaces. Trouble is, those words can describe lawns as well. When your mower bounces around like a small boat in choppy water, it creates a situation where it's not only tough to mow, but can be potentially dangerous.

What causes it? Well, several things. As a lawn grows older, it can become rough and uneven as the grass gradually thins. Sparse, thin lawns have less leafy growth and cushioning effect than thick ones. Thin lawns may be caused by poor maintenance, shade, insects, diseases and other factors. Re-establishing thick grass can help correct the problem.

Another cause of uneven lawns is failing to take precautions when laying sod. If the soil's wet, the walking and kneeling on it creates depressions that will remain there for what seems like an eternity.

Freezing and thawing of the soil during late winter and early spring is another cause, known as "heaving."

If your lawn fits the above description, you'd probably like to restore it. You won't be able to get results overnight, but you will eventually. Here's how it's done.

Aerate the lawn. This is best done in late summer or early fall to keep from disrupting actively growing grass. The aerating machine has tubes that go down into the ground and remove small plugs of soil, allowing moisture and other nutrients to penetrate deeper.

Power rake the area to help break up the bumps in the lawn. It also breaks up the plugs of soil left behind by the aerating machine.

The power raking will surely leave behind a bunch of loose grass blades and thatch. Make sure you rake it all up.

Sow an appropriate grass seed and rake the entire area with a leaf rake. This will work the seed into the soil.

Keep the soil surface moist to encourage the grass seed to sprout. Once these steps are completed, your lawn should be thicker and the surface should be more like a newly-paved freeway than a ripply dirt road.

Be sure to apply fertilizer in fall and spring. Feeding will help thicken the turf-even more and make what lawn areas that are left over much less noticeable.

Whatever you do, even if your well-meaning friend or neighbor makes claims to the contrary, don't try to smooth out a bumpy lawn by rolling it. It may seem to remove some of the roughness, but it can also cause damage by compacting the soil. And compacted soil conditions reduce grass vigor and make the lawn even thinner. End result: A cause of bumpy lawns.

If your lawn is fairly smooth, but has an area with one large, deep depression, you can fix it easily. Cut out and carefully lift the turf from the depressed area. Fill it in with good soil, then lay the patch of grass back over it. Keep the area well watered and it will eventually blend in perfectly with the surrounding lawn.

Horoscope

Sunday, Aug. 4
Experience is a building block as aspects involving the moon and Neptune test family bonds and introduce new ways to show empathy to those we care about. With the moon in aggressive Aries now, action sometimes goes before thought — when the latter catches up, we may realize we've made a mistake. It's a wonderful time to say, "I'm sorry," and make an effort to change.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): You discover that you are stronger than you knew. A plan backfires, leaving you in a compromising situation — be calm and you'll do the right thing. Insisting on the whole truth is vital. An ex-lover shows he or she still cares.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20):

A brief sojourn in the spotlight makes you irresistible. Friends take an interest in your personal life. Surround yourself with the ultra-supportive. Patience in the evening is rewarding. Give your family concerns top priority.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): A test of your strength gives you new confidence. Asking for help means success, not failure. Explore a love interest that hasn't been given a chance. Your busy schedule is exhausting — take time to pamper yourself.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): Welcome honesty by presenting a strong front. Your serenity alleviates domestic tensions. A game helps you get to know someone better. Refuse to compromise your principles. You have luck in money matters this morning.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are more thoughtful about by an amorous individual than you know. Put a big domestic project on hold until you get expert assistance. Balance checkbooks, and review accounts. An invitation is proof positive of a conquest.
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 4): Triumph against foes this month and your rewards are far-reaching. A gift helps you afford some luxury. Experience an important rite of passage in September. One of your oldest aspirations is suddenly within reach in late fall. Love is best with a Capricorn or Sagittarius. In money, select a Cancer partner. Enjoy windfalls in January and July. Travel in October brings luck and romance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Enmity turns to friendship when a misunderstanding is cleared up. A loved one is receptive to questions of raises or vacations. Self-discipline leads to better health. A child needs more instruction.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23):

The needs of others have come first for too long — attend to your own. Bring a creative endeavor to completion. A lover puts his or her true feelings in writing. Little ones need inspiration, but this takes less time than you think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Stop wondering whether you are noticed by that special someone you are. Guilt forces you into action. Hard work and long hours win you recognition at the office. Enter a business venture with a cousin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be timely — tardiness threatens your credibility. Live up to added responsibilities at home and find unexpected rewards. Involvement in a community project improves career opportunities. Avoid confrontations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Smooth out a rocky relationship with help from an objective third party. Win a financial bonus by working during off hours. Rewards are great when you encourage creativity in a child. An acquaintance finds you attractive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A "charmless" joke has really hurt someone's feelings. Sensitivity would be appreciated. Making an exception to the rules could prove to be lucrative. Catch up on late work. Make travel plans long in advance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A creative outlet leads to a new job. Make decisions based on your own inclinations rather than a parent's wishes. A lover is feeling sick or she needs space. Ask a sibling's opinion. Charitable work brings luck.

Illusion perfectly created

Computer-imaging can manufacture on the screen such marvels as dinosaurs galloping, cows flying and Tom Hanks talking to JFK. The latest achievement: four Michael Keatons in one scene.

No more of the awkward scenes of twins facing each other, one of them seen from the back (obviously a double), to be followed by a split-screen shot of both faces. In "Multiplicity," the illusion is perfectly accomplished by a crew headed by Richard Edlund.

The four Keatons appear together as naturally as if they were quadruplets. If only the script of "Multiplicity" was as ingenious.

The story originated with Chris Miller, who was joined in the screenplay by Mary Hale. Comedy specialists Lowell Ganz and Babaloo Mandel apparently punched up the script. Then Harold Ramis directed with more emphasis on milking the laughs than providing a firm basis for the farfetched story.

The laughs come uneasily at first, as the audience adjusts to the loony logic of the premise. Once that milestone is passed, the reaction ranges from chuckles to belly laughs, with wide gaps in between.

Keaton is a top-level officer of a construction company in Los Angeles. Vastly overworked, he is subject to fits of temper. The stress affects his home life with Andy McDowdy and his young children.

The solution to his problems comes from one of his company's clients, the Gemini Institute at Malibu. "Multiplicity," which opens 17, is produced by Ramis and Trevor Albert.

Mank resigns soccer post at Althoff

"You've got to be tough." I wonder how often those words will be said in August during the preseason of high school athletics.

Yet, one area coach who will not be uttering much knows more than most the meaning of tough.

After 19 years as the varsity soccer coach at Althoff High, Larry Mank is resigning that position — one in which his toughness may have made the difference between life and death nearly a year ago.

"We were playing on a Saturday morning at Highland, and I felt pain in my lower abdomen," said Mank.

Yet, that was not enough to keep the 49-year-old coach from making it through the varsity and junior varsity games that day and then more action Monday at Laderman Park in Belleville.

At the urging of his wife Barb, a nurse at the St. Clair County Health Department, Mank saw his doctor who was admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital on a Tuesday and underwent surgery for a ruptured colon the next day.

"I do believe Dr. Jay Haines saved my life," said Mank. "He said the rupture may have occurred at halftime of the Saturday game. When I met with him, he said I had no more than two days to have the surgery."

On Sept. 27 — two days after his final game — Mank underwent emergency surgery, and on Nov. 29 had a second surgery called "reversal surgery."

Able to return to Althoff the second semester of the 1995-96 school year, Mank gradually returned to full health but said he re-evaluated things in the process.

In a letter of resignation submitted to Althoff Principal Sister Jan Renz, Mank wrote: "Since my illness and during my recovery, I have given much thought to many aspects of my life. I needed to re-evaluate my priorities."

"I feel I have reached a stage in my life in which, for medical and other reasons, I should no longer coach soccer. I no longer feel I can continue the demanding aspects of coaching such as the very long hours, traveling on buses to away games, double sessions before the school year starts, the stress of making cuts, etc."

"I want to spend a lot more time with my family. I feel I have given much over the years, but it is time for me to step down and let others carry on the Althoff soccer tradition. Coaching has always been a major part of my life. I am not saying that I will never coach again, but for now, I feel a need to slow down and take a break."

When I visited Mank in the hospital last September, it was more than a meeting of visitor and patient. Larry and I (at See MANK, Page 4B)

Simpson eager to spot up in Greenville backcourt

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

It appears that Greenville College and Granite City's Jay Simpson are a perfect match for each other.

Simpson, who celebrated his 18th birthday on Thursday, will play basketball at the Division III school under coach Doug Faulkner.

Simpson, a three-year letterman at guard for the Warriors, was the focus of nearly every team's defense with his ability to drive and dish or hit the 3-point bomb.

And those qualities should serve him well at Greenville, where the team has built a winning tradition over the past two years. However, last year's team lost three of its guards. That's where Simpson fits in. "They went to the national Division III tournament last year," Simpson said. "So they have a very good team, and a good coach. And they lost a lot of their guards, so I'll have a chance to play."

"It's close to home and you can get up there easy. Since it's not that far and I can still play basketball, it was perfect."

Greenville cannot offer athletic scholarships, but Simpson said he's getting a pretty good deal.

"They worked it out, and gave me presidential scholarships, and stuff like that," he said. "They're helping me out quite a bit, so I'm happy with (See SIMPSON, Page 4B)

Warriors' Gardiner commits to Concordia

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

There were Division I schools interested in Granite City's John Gardiner, and for a while he was interested in them, too.

But none of those schools could offer what Concordia University could: a chance to play right away and a great teaching program.

Therefore Gardiner has committed to Concordia, which is located in River Forest, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. He has signed on to play football and compete in track for the Division III school.

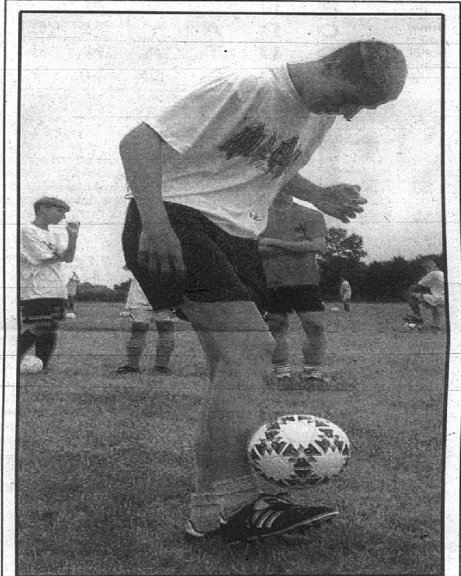

Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa State were three of the larger schools that showed an interest in Gardiner, but the former GCHS lineman wanted more than just a big-name school.

Gardiner, 18, said he wants to study physical education and psychology, the two main ingredients needed for a successful coaching career. And in Concordia — a former teacher's college — he'll be a part of one of the country's best educational programs.

"From the minute I went up there, everyone was friendly and as helpful as they could be," Gardiner said. "Since I'd also like to go into coaching one day, the coach there said I'll be able to work up there for a year — as a coaching intern — after I graduate."

"And the school has a great (See GARDINER, Page 3B)

Metro East girls league seeking players, teams

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

A new girls basketball league is forming this fall in the Metro East.

"We'd eventually like to have a high school girls league, but right now we're looking at a fifth- and sixth-grade division and a seventh- and eighth-grade division," said league representative Rick Lehr. "We have two teams now — the Eliminators Green (grades 5-6) and the Eliminators Fire n' Ice (grades 7-8). We practice once a week and play once a week."

"A lot of our games are at BAC (Belleville Area College); we're really getting good cooperation from them."

Michael Vivod, 12, was the high point winner in his age group for the fourth straight year last week at the SWISA diving meet.

Vivod collects fourth straight SWISA crown

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Through the years, there have been very few athletes who have accomplished what Michael Vivod recently did.

Vivod, a 12-year-old diver for the Paddlers, captured his fourth consecutive Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association (SWISA) diving title in the conference meet July 27 at Summers-Port Swim Club.

In fact, the list of divers who have captured four or more titles is a very small one.

"The only other one I can think of was Jenny Baker," said Paddlers diving coach Gayle McCormick. "I'd say that puts him in elite company."

Baker went on to place two times in the Illinois state high school diving championships and wound up as an All-fourth title. Vivod said Pieper has been his biggest rival through the past few years.

"It gets harder and harder each time," he said. "But it wasn't really that close this time. I thought I did pretty well."

Diving since he was 8 years old, Vivod said he has not been surprised by his success.

"The competition was pretty tough, but I knew I could do it," he said.

McCormick said Vivod's personality has a lot to do with his success.

"Some people probably look at him and don't think he takes it seriously, but he does," she said. "But he's so easygoing, and he doesn't let anything bother him. He really is business-like when he's diving, yet he doesn't appear to be real serious."

record of placing its graduates after school — something like 88 or 89 percent. And I'd like to maybe come back to the (Metro East) area, and coach one day."

Although Concordia is a Division III school and as such it cannot give out athletic scholarships — the school has put together a nice financial package for Gardiner.

"I looked at some of those big schools, but I want to play," he said. "At those other schools, I would have been lucky to have played when I was a junior. But the coach at Concordia said he gives everyone an equal chance to make the team, so I'll have a chance to play as a freshman."

The 6-foot-3, 175-pound Gardiner, who played on both sides of the line for the Warriors, said he'd like to concentrate on either defensive end or tackle in college.

That means he'll have to bulk up a bit. Gardiner will report to the college on Aug. 19.

"I've been doing some running and lifting weights all summer," he said. "I will have to get bigger, but I can play where I'm at now, especially at end."

Gardiner earned three varsity letters in both football and track. At Concordia, he'll also throw the shot and will be introduced to the javelin.

"That's another reason they wanted me," he said. "It looks like I'll be pretty busy all year."

He added that he's thankful for the way his coaches in high school urged him along through his career.

"They took me to my breaking point and kept pushing me," he said. "That taught me a lot about what I could do."

Gardiner said Concordia is an older institution, but he likes the atmosphere and the people he's met so far. He said the school is an easy 20 minutes from Chicago.

"Plus, it came highly recommended, especially by some of the teachers I talked to," Gardiner said. "I can't wait to get up there."

•League

Initial response to the new league has been encouraging.

"The girls in the area are left out sometimes," said Lehr, whose daughter is a sixth-grade athlete at Zion Lutheran School in Belleville. "We wanted to play in the Prairie State Games, but it was all filled up with teams from up north. I have some contacts in this area, so we got in tournaments in Alton and Wood River."

"Our fifth- and sixth-graders are unbeaten and took first place in the Jersey County tournament in Jerseyville. Fire 'n' Ice got second place in the International Sports Festival at Grant School (in Fairview Heights)."

The Eliminators — currently comprised of 18 girls on two teams — will split into sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade squads for a tournament Aug. 16-17 in Roxana.

"What we're striving for is something like Roger Luna has done in St. Louis," Lehr said. "He's a teacher at Fox High School and works with the Kutis girls teams. They travel all over the country to tournaments. Eventually we'd like to get involved with something like that — more or less a traveling team."

Eliminators players are planning several fund-raising events and Lehr is seeking sponsors and co-sponsors for teams that wish to join the league.

"Once the league is formed, we'll get the team reps together and discuss rules, regulations and the schedule," Lehr said. "We'll elect officers and run it just like a business."

"We're not in competition with the individual schools — we only want to enhance the girls' ability. We want to give girls who are dedicated to basketball an opportunity to play all year."

For more information about the league, call 235-5764 or fax 235-3936. Both Eliminators teams are also seeking opponents for scrimmages and practice games.

the deal."

Simpson said Faulkner told him he'll likely see time at the No. 2 guard position, but he needs help at No. 1 guard as well.

"(Faulkner) said he'll need an outside shooter, and that's something I can definitely help them out with. I've been playing mostly No. 2 all through high school, but I think I could go either way. I'll do whatever it takes."

The 6-foot, 170-pounder is a real rarity. There aren't many Granite City basketball players at the college level.

"I hope it helps some of the younger kids out there," Simpson said. "When they see that I made it, they know that it's possible. You have to work with what you have, and I think I've done that."

"I've always wanted to play college basketball, since I was a kid. But I'm not that tall. I think I accomplished what I was looking for, though, and I reached all of my goals."

Greenville College is a smaller school — which was also attractive to Simpson — but he'll be a part of the school's largest freshman class

•Mank

O'Fallon) had been opposing coaches during his 19-year tenure, and as he said, "We had some good battles."

Toughness, though, was a signature of the Althoff teams, and it extended from a coach whose first surgery occurred one hour after his initial X-ray. Apparently, Dave Stosberg, who served as interim coach last fall, will replace Mank, a 1985 Althoff graduate.

Among Mank's soccer achievements were four Mid-South Conference championships, five regional titles (1982, '83, '86, '89, '90), an undefeated regular season and a cumulative 207-150-48 record.

More appropriately, though, was an award Mank and his team received in 1993 from the IHSA for "Sporting a Winning Attitude."

Today Mank knows well the meaning of those words.

OVERTIME: A mechanical drawing and psychology teacher and coordinator for the junior class at Althoff, Mank served as the Crusaders' track coach from 1975-85 and said he knew little about soccer when then-Principal John O'Brien ever, which has more than 2,000 students.

Simpson reports Aug. 30 and starts classes on Sept. 4. The basketball season should begin in November. He's kept busy this summer, attending camps and working out.

He took part in the Rich Grawer camp for the second straight year, and he also attended a camp at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He said he believes he doesn't necessarily need to get any bigger, but definitely stronger.

"In just the few times I've run scrimmages at the college, I realized how much bigger and better everybody is at this level," he said. "I'll need to work on my strength."

Simpson, the son of Ron and Vicki Simpson of Granite City, said he'd like to study law enforcement — to follow in his dad's footsteps — or elementary education.

"They've got a real good reputation and a good education program," the younger Simpson said. "On the court, they've got a good tradition, and Coach Faulkner has seemed to make a big difference. I couldn't be happier."

approached him about the sport.

"Since running and conditioning are a large part of the game, I was a likely candidate," said Mank.

•Vivod

"What he's done is a very rare thing, and as young as he is he has a chance to win even more."

Vivod agreed he'll be diving for quite some time.

"I'd like to do this for a few more years," he said. "Maybe even in college or something. That would be nice, but I know it would be a lot of work, too."

Watching the summer Olympics this week, he said he could see himself maybe even diving at that level in the future.

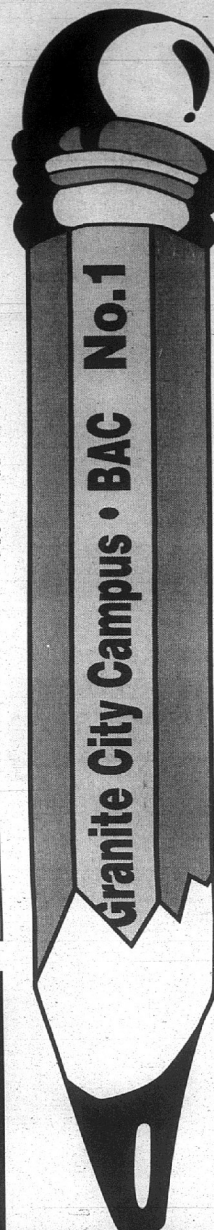

"I'd like to do that one day," he said.

Vivod said he really doesn't train much during the offseason, adding that it would be nice if there were more winter facilities in the area. However, he did attend a winter dive event at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this year.

He said he really doesn't have a favorite diver, nor does he emulate anyone in particular. He simply tried the sport one day and liked it.

"My mom told me about the diving classes, and when I went the coach (McCormick) was really nice," he said. "It's really fun to do, and that's why I like it."

"He has a lot of composure for his age," McCormick said, "and good balance in the air. And his personality helps keep him relaxed. Those are three pretty good components for a good diver."
